Question 1

Reflecting on our Vision: Consider the context and vision casting message you just heard, what resonated with you the most? What challenges do you see?

Summary

The organization faces numerous challenges including legal changes, levy campaigns, enrollment issues, and adapting to changing industry needs.

Collaborative efforts with faculty, staff, and students are essential for meaningful connections and community support.

Strategic planning, integration of credit and non-credit programs, and clear communication of relevance to stakeholders are crucial. There is a need to quickly develop and implement a tangible plan to maintain academic strength and adapt to workforce needs.

Transparency, affordability, and return on investment are key focus areas.

Embracing AI technology and addressing cultural challenges for immigrant students are also important considerations.

Responses

Academic Adaptation Challenges
Individual experience in excelling academic excellence
Question: How do we adapt while maintaining academic strength?
Thought: Tri-c has been adapting to our changing student population routinely over the years.
Enhancing Collaborative Engagement
Communicating relevance to all stakeholders in a way in which they see themselves and their work embedded in the strategic plan Community needs to know our value/ benefit as do we.
Engage in meaningful connection to engage, support, and resource integration of credit and noncredit - including faculty and staff from both sides of house to discuss and collaborate resonated: collaborative efforts with faculty staff and students Transform how we serve the community, partners and students.
Navigating Organizational Challenges
Challenge: amount of time and energy needed from everyone over the next five years to participate in levy, strat plan, etc.
challenges: enrollment Challenges: state and federal legal changes changes in workplace needs
Industry and professions will be changing all the more quickly over the next few years - there are a lot of unknowns.
Levies are challenging
Lots of work ahead - accreditation & levy campaign
There are challenges to enrollment ahead.
Unique challenges now and in the future... past practice won't work

Other

affordability

Augment capabilities with continuous use of AI technology

Build as a community

Relevancy

return on investment

The cultural climate is not friendly to immigrants who make up a portion of our student population.

We need to be more transparent about what we do on the academic side, not just the workforce side.

Planning and Preparedness

Be ready for accreditation

Is there already a plan, or direction in place?

Project what employers will need.

Strategic Planning Focus

Need to take action.

Plans can be scaffolded, but something tangible should be in place soon.

Resonated: scaffolded approach to 5 year plan

Strategic plan is ending, levy in a few years...change is inevitable

We need to have a plan in place quickly.

Question 2

Reflecting on our Mission: What unique strengths or characteristics does Tri-C have that differentiate it from other local educational options that give our students a competitive advantage in getting a good paying job or getting their BA?

Summary

The institution provides extensive student services, including personalized support, hand-holding from application through graduation, and strong community and industry connections. It offers accessible education across multiple campuses with affordable, transferable courses, and strong relationships with four-year institutions.

The institution supports diverse student populations and faculty, with passionate professors who have real-world experience and prioritize teaching. Various programs and degrees, flexible instruction modes, and increased online presence cater to students of all ages and needs, ensuring financial stability and a good return on investment.

Strategies to Thrive

What strategies should Tri-C consider to do more than meet the challenges ahead, but thrive?

Summary

Be adaptable and find new ways to reach changing student populations by advertising more than traditional college programs. Develop student mapping needs and aspirations and be willing to try new approaches.

See Tri-C as an adaptable resource, keep class sizes small, and focus on being a teaching/learning college with more evening classes. Maintain full-time faculty positions, encourage in-person instruction, and hire more full-time faculty for a better faculty-to-student ratio.

Proactively reach the community with programming, integrate workforce and academic sides, and offer classes in various modalities and times.

Responses

be adaptable
be willing to try something new even if it may not work
Have only one weblink with links see Tri-C as and always adaptable resource Enhancing College Programs and Community Outreach advertise more than traditional college programs
Be more proactive about reaching the community with community programing
Continue to run classes in a variety of modalities and times
Develop student mapping needs and aspirations that shows there path forward encourage in person instruction
find new ways to reach out to changing student populations focus on being a "teaching/learning" college focused goals
Hire more full time faculty to keep a better full time faculty to student ratio Keep class sizes small keep full time faculty positions
offer more evening classes
work to integrate workforce and academic sides
